Letter of Recommendation

It is a pleasure to write a letter of recommendation for Mr. Manish Gangal for MS program in Computer Science. I have known him for 3 years and have had opportunity to closely observe his abilities.

I taught him Data Communication, Image processing and Automata theory and compiler design. Manish was a brilliant student. Manish impresses me in a number of areas and it is his combination of technical skills, talent and desire to learn that convince me that he will be successful in the Masters Program. For him computer science is not just an academic endeavour, but also journey of discovery, wherein each new aspect thrills and delights with endless possibilities.

He has won few of college level programming competitions. One of them was blank coding, in black coding monitor screen is kept off and he wrote Binary tree implementation program in C in one go and got 1st price. It shows that he has strong technical knowledge of programming languages and good understanding of fundamental concepts.

He was selected in Tata Consultancy Services from this Department through Campus placement for the express reasons of his academic performance and strong analytical and technical skills. I hear that he continues to perform exceedingly well there too.

For the above achievements, which illustrate his scholastic abilities, professional aptitude and potential for working fruitfully in any field of his choosing, I recommend him unhesitatingly for the Master's program.

Letter of Recommendation

I have known Mr. Manish Gangal in my capacity as Assistant Professor in the Department of Information technology as a notable student of the Department. I am delighted to recommend Manish for the Master's program at your esteemed university. He has done very well in extremely competitive environment of the Department, I would like to further elaborate on his suitability for Master's program.

I taught him Mobile Computing and Cryptography and Network Security in final year. I most noticed the great interest he showed in the practical parts of course and his ability to apply the theoretical knowledge learned in class to solve the practical problems. As a result, he performed very well in this course. My high opinion about him is also shared by the faculty members of my department.

Manish has been always inquisitive in class and has shown excellent analytical and problem solving skills which are highly helpful for pursuing research during the Masters program. He always completed all his assignments well ahead of the deadlines and constantly ask me questions on the subject.

Apart from performing excellently academically, he has also been involved in extracurricular activities such as organizing events at college and representing the college at various Quiz and Gaming competitions and won few of them. He was technical secretary in final year and responsible for maintaining computers in practical lab, WIFI routers, LCD projectors, audio system of Information Technology Department.

He has occasionally asked me for guidance in determining his career goals and enhanced his knowledge. I sincerely believe that he pursues his interests very passionately and will definitely perform very well at your institution. Hence I would like to strongly recommend him for admission into your highly reputed institution.
